Religious Education

Are you looking for a way to be involved? The Religious Education Department is looking for you! Right now we are looking for volunteers to describe their experience of the sacrament of penance and reconciliation to our Sunday classes: you don't need to teach theology, just tell the students why and how your participation is meaningful to you personally, maybe answer a few of their questions. We need less than 5 minutes of your time on November 19 or December 3.

We will also have need of folks to show a video from a computer on Sundays between or after Masses (starting in Advent), and to help with our Vacation Bible School week next June. Call Matthew Fallon in the office to discuss these options to cooperate with the Holy Spirit!

Attention Teens!

You have only until the 10th of November to finish your entry for the Maryknoll Essay contest - $1,000 is up for grabs! See details on the stairwell bulletin board.

Donations for Veterans

FRIENDS OF SAINT ANTHONY will be collecting the following items during the month of November: sweat pants, jeans, pants, coats, boots, socks, underwear, hats, and gloves. The Veterans Day Collection is for the veterans who come to Eskanazi Emergency Hospital in Indianapolis. There is a great need for these items so when they are sent home they will have clean clothing to wear. These items can be gently used, new, or gift cards that will be used to purchase the items most needed. Place your donations in the wicker basket by the Veteran's red/white/blue tree. Thank you for giving and God Bless America and all of our Veterans!

Mark your calendars for the Mary Queen of Peace annual Christmas Bazaar on Saturday, November 11, in the church basement. Vendors include baskets, food, jewelry, crafts, wooden items and much more. 9 a.m.-3 p.m. See you there!

Also, donations are requested for our Country Cupboard at the Christmas bazaar. If you can donate crafts, desserts, candies, breads or any homemade item, please call Anita at 317-745-6493.

"God has found me worthy to be a minister of His Gospel, and so when I speak, I strive to please God and not men."

1 Thessalonians 2:4

+Dear Friends,

"You shall love the Lord, your God, with all your heart, with all your soul and with all your mind." This commandment, described by our Lord in today's Gospel as the "greatest and first commandment," is a fitting credo for every Catholic.

In order to fully comprehend this commandment, one must always remember to "link" it with the second commandment: "You shall love your neighbor as yourself." With these two commandments at hand, we can live the lives Christ Jesus has called us to embrace.

Some wise man pointed out that a beautiful way to visualize these two great commandments is to think of the crucifix. The crucifix is made up two beams; one vertical and one horizontal. Of course, the vertical beam is our relationship with Christ. The horizontal is our relationship with neighbor. You can't have the crucifix without both beams. AND, you can't have the crucifix without our Lord Jesus upon it! In other words, you can't live the two great commandments without Jesus Christ firmly a part of both "beams" of your life!

This coming Wednesday, November 1, is the Solemnity of All Saints. Obligation means just that...it is a solemn Obligation AND Privilege to offer Mass! Masses offered for ALL SAINTS' DAY WILL BE AT 7:00 P.M. ON ALL HALLOWS' EVE, OCTOBER 31, AND AT NOON ON NOVEMBER 1ST. All Saints' Day is a perennial reminder to us to "stay the course;" to live lives consistent with the dignity given us at our Baptism. It is a celebration honoring all those holy men and women who remain our "superheroes" of living the Faith. They show us all that, yes, the life of Christ can be lived with joy!

While not an Obligation, the Feast of All Souls' on November 2nd is a beautiful Feast of the Church as well. Mass will take place at the usual 5:30 p.m. on that Thursday, followed by Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament until 9 p.m. Come, pray for and remember your beloved gone before us marked with the sign of faith!

I have written on this before but it does bear repeating from time to time; because many people still do not understand the 'Rubrics' for the Holy Mass. "Ad Orientem," "Ad Deum" and "Versus Populum." What??

For those of you who remember, from time to time I offer the Holy Mass in the optional manner given the priest of the priest and people facing the Lord together. At last year's celebration of the All Saints' Day Mass, as well as All Souls' Day Mass, you may remember that I offered the Mass in a position that differed from the "usual" position of the priest. I offered the Mass "ad orientem" or, "to the east." Another name for this is "ad Deum," or "to the Lord." The opposite is called "versus populum" or, "against the people."

Those of who are becoming ancient need to remember that Vatican Council II can never be seen as a "rupture" with our past; it is a continuation of the unbroken truths of Jesus Christ and His Church. This is seen and lived both in teaching as well as in practice. Unfortunately, the Council's implementation was not always brought about with this eternal wisdom in mind. Sadly, quite often it was incorrectly taught and practiced that what came before the Council was over and done with, while what came afterward was now the "new" truth and practice. This leads directly to the point of "ad orientem" or "ad Deum" and "versus populum."

The Church has always believed and taught that the Second Coming of Christ would come from the east. Most Catholic churches were built in order that the priest and people both faced east, or at the least, liturgical east, at Mass; in Latin...."ad orientem." It was never a question of the priest, as some would say of "having his back to the people." Rather, it was understood that the priest and people join together in turning toward the Lord (In Latin, "ad Deum.")

Jesus leads the people of the New Covenant to the heights of Calvary, to the sacred presence of God. Physically as well as spiritually, He leads and we follow. The Church continues this belief; this practice to this day. As a matter of fact, it was and still remains the rightfully assumed position of the priest to be "ad orientem" during portions of the Mass; leading the people, in Persona Christi (in the Person of Christ), to the heights of the divine presence in the Holy Eucharist offered to the Father, ("ad Deum"). The rubrics (from "red" in Latin) in the Roman Missal spell out this directive very clearly.

Following the Second Vatican Council, the practice arose for the priest to stand "versus populum" or, "against the people" for portions of the Mass due to the repositioning of many of the altars from being attached to the rear wall to a position of being freestanding.

This position, ("versus populum") however, was never mandated nor was "ad orientem," or "ad Deum" abrogated. It was mistakenly simply assumed to be the norm. As mentioned, it is important for us to know the theological, ecclesial and liturgical beliefs behind the actions of the priest and people at Mass.

Mass at St. Peter's in Rome is offered "versus populum" when the Papal Altar is used due to its position under the great dome. At all other altars however, the norm of "ad orientem" has been in force. For the Feast of the Baptism of the Lord last January in the Sistine Chapel, for example, the Holy Father offered the Mass "ad orientem/"ad Deum." When I've been on pilgrimage, no one has batted an eye when Mass was offered "ad orientem," or "ad Deum;" it was presumed.

I've again taken this opportunity to engage in some catechesis for a couple of reasons. First, all of us need to be aware of the teachings and practice of the faith; not what we may think they are but what they actually are. I have attempted to explain this one aspect of our liturgical life and practice as Catholics. Second, those of you who regularly attend daily Mass already are aware that I sometimes offer the Mass using the "ad orientem," or "ad Deum" position.

As mentioned, for the upcoming Holy Day and Feast, I will use the "Ad Orientem" posture. Will this become the "norm" for each and every Mass? No. I will, however, continue to offer Mass using both “ad Deum” and “versus populum” positions. As the Church continues to show us, ours is a rich and treasured Liturgy. It is important for us to know and celebrate that Treasure!

May God continue to bless us all!
